

P
Univ
H

HARVARD COLLEGE
CLASS OF 1871

Compliments of the Class Secretary

U

HARVARD COLLEGE CLASS OF 1871

CAMBRIDGE · MASSACHUSETTS
PRINTED FOR THE CLASS
JUNE · 1931

348⁶⁺²
— 4 . 38.
— 4 .

PRINTED IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

THE MURRAY PRINTING COMPANY
KENDALL SQUARE CAMBRIDGE

CONTENTS

FOREWORD	5
FINANCIAL STATEMENT	6
RECORDS OF THE CLASS	9
HONORARY MEMBERS	23
NECROLOGY	25
ADDRESSES	26

FOREWORD

This monograph is intended only to give you such matters relating to those of us who have reached this anniversary as you might each feel disposed to contribute, and my hearty and sincere thanks are due to you for your prompt responses to my circular of April 17. It did not seem advisable to reprint the record as it appeared in the report of 1921 (as some of you seemed to think was my intention), but if, by chance, any of you have lost or mislaid that report I have on hand a few copies which I shall be pleased to furnish.

The receipt of your answers and the preparation of the booklet have afforded me a great deal of pleasure, and I hope it may prove interesting to you. My only regret is that I am not able to make it a hundred per cent complete, but I still have hopes of getting some word from those who have not yet replied.

I should be something less than human if I were not deeply touched by the many kind words of personal appreciation which I have received from some of you, but you must remember what Oliver Wendell Holmes once said, "that compliments to him were like oats fed to a young colt, they went to his head;" so don't overfeed this colt lest he kick over the traces or take the bit in his teeth and run away.

ALBERT M. BARNES,
Secretary.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT

Cash on hand as per last report . . .	$418.66
Sale of 9 shares, American Telephone and Telegraph Company (1921) . . .	1,041.17
Income from investments . . .	2,182.31
Sale of rights, Edison Electric Illuminating Company	18.06
Sale of rights, American Telephone and Telegraph Company	813.13
Total	$4,473.33

Disbursements

1921 Class report and photographs . . .	$1,438.61
1922 Commencement expenses . . .	71.90
Printing and postage . . .	10.75
1923 Commencement expenses . . .	67.65
Alumni Directory . . .	5.50
1924 Class dinner	109.50
Commencement expenses . . .	63.38
Printing and postage . . .	6.95
Flowers for Lodge . . .	10.00
1925 Secretaries Association . . .	4.96
Commencement expenses . . .	54.85
Quinquennial Catalogue . . .	5.00
1926 Commencement expenses . . .	61.25
Alumni Directory . . .	5.00
1927 Secretaries Association . . .	4.00
Commencement expenses . . .	53.50
Printing and postage . . .	7.50
Fall luncheon . . .	49.50
1928 Secretaries Association . . .	4.10
Commencement expenses . . .	49.25
Flowers for Hagar . . .	4.00
Fall luncheon . . .	51.40
Printing and postage . . .	6.20
1929 Secretaries Association . . .	1.00
Commencement expenses . . .	45.95
Alumni Directory . . .	5.00
Printing and postage . . .	7.75
Fall luncheon . . .	45.10

FINANCIAL STATEMENT

1930	Secretaries Association	$4.29
	Commencement expenses	51.20
	Printing and postage	58.03
	Fall luncheon	40.75
1931	Flowers for Canavan	7.00
	Printing and postage	9.90
		<hr/>
		$2,420.72

And I have made the following investments:

1923	1 share American Telephone and Telegraph	$102.75
1924	3 shares American Telephone and Telegraph	295.20
1926	3 shares American Telephone and Telegraph	295.20
1928	3 shares American Telephone and Telegraph	307.50
1930	10 shares New England Pub- lic Service Company 6% preferred	<hr/> 917.83 1,918.48
	Total	<hr/> 4,339.20
	Cash on hand, April 30, 1931	$134.13
	And we have 28 shares American Telephone and Telegraph Company stock, costing	3,244.16
	10 shares New England Public Service Company stock, costing	917.83
	And 1 share Edison Illuminating Electric Com- pany stock, costing	<hr/> 235.00
	Total	<hr/> $4,531.12

RECORDS OF THE CLASS

ALBERT MALLARD BARNES

"The past ten years have brought little of general interest into my life. My son Karl passed away in March 1922, leaving me only one chick, Donald, who is actively connected with the Stone and Webster organization. I am a director in the Harvard Trust Company and am still president of the Cambridge Gas Light Company, although said company was sold in 1927 to the New England Gas and Electric Association, a subsidiary of the Associated Gas and Electric System of New York. In 1926 I resigned from the Board of Trustees of the Cambridge Hospital after thirty years service as its secretary. My wife and I celebrated our golden wedding anniversary in 1924 with a fairly large party of relatives, and since then we have lived a quiet and happy but uneventful life."

SAMUEL DACRE BUSH

"As I have not been in the public eye I don't see that I can add anything to the account of my life, except to say that the machine is still going."

WILLIAM ELWOOD BYERLY

"Twenty years ago my oculist informed me that my eyes were in bad shape; that I might, if I chose, teach for a couple of years and then go blind; but that if I were to retire and exercise constant care I might see fairly well for the rest of my life. Naturally I decided to resign my professorship and to become a back number. I hoped that I might devote my time to writing leisurely on my familiar subject, and I did complete and publish a couple of small mathematical works that I think were worth while; but in spite of all my care the strain proved too great and my pencil had to be laid aside. Since then I have been merely an intensely interested and, I hope, a fairly intelligent observer of the world panorama.

HARVARD COLLEGE — CLASS 1871

I happen to have been born and bred a Quaker, and I firmly believe in their fundamental dogmas of the sanctity of human life and the brotherhood of man. I have always regarded war as a wicked and stupendous folly. The slogans ‘A war to end war,’ and ‘A war to make the world safe for democracy,’ never appealed to me. I knew that every war sowed the seeds of future wars, and that if the World War should make the world safe for anything, it would be for autocracy and not for democracy. I need not say that the events of the last decade have confirmed me in my belief.

I think I can see a little progress toward right thinking in the world as a whole. The League of Nations is gradually becoming a power for peace; and on the economic side there are indications of a belated recognition of the fact that selfishness, individual or national, is not always the best policy.

They used to say that a Boston millionaire could not hope for Heaven unless he left some of his money to Harvard College. Now all over the country it has become the fashion for men of wealth to devote enormous sums to the public service. On the whole I feel that life is worth living, and I am by no means ready to say ‘Lord, now lettest Thou thy servant depart in peace.’

I am sorry that I shall not get to Boston this spring, and that I shall be unable to be at the sixtieth anniversary of ’71. I send my greetings to all the good fellows who will be there and particularly to our faithful and beloved Secretary.”

FRANCIS BROOKS CHADWICK

My dear Barnes: I owe you a letter, in fact many, to thank you for the many communications that you have sent me concerning my old Class of ’71 and my classmates whom I have not seen for many years. They are always dear to me and I feel so sad when a little printed card from you reaches me with the announcement of the death of so and so. The last one was dated January 24 and it tells me that Canavan who sat next to me in the classes from '67 to '71 has left us for, I trust, some better world. He was a pleasant companion and although I never knew him very intimately, I regret extremely that I shall never see him again. And so they go, and we cannot now number more than twenty-five.

RECORDS OF THE CLASS

I am so sorry that I cannot join in your yearly or semi-yearly dinners, but the ocean is great and I am beginning to feel that I will never see America or Boston again. My family is gone and nearly all of my intimate friends in college and before college have passed away. I have taken root in France and I have many of my grandchildren around and about me. I am now eighty-one years old, but I feel a good deal younger and I often hear people say that I look about sixty or sixty-five. Of course we never know what will happen, but I have made up my mind to live from five to ten years longer. I walk about five miles every day and work in my studio three or four hours every day during the winters and a good deal more during the summer months.

Please remember me to my old classmates at your next dinner and tell them that it is only the Atlantic Ocean that keeps me from joining them. I should even like to paint their portraits, but they must come to me if that promise interests them enough. I am on the point of going south for a couple of months, but if I am lucky I will be back in Paris by the middle of the month of April. If you yourself will venture over I will do my best to make your visit agreeable. I am afraid that I am the only member of the Class in this part of the world, but little tete-a-tete dinners are better than no dinners at all. I should like to ask you a thousand and one questions about my old classmates living or dead.

With my best wishes to you; as ever, I remain your friend and classmate.

HARVARD COLLEGE — CLASS 1871

HORACE DWIGHT CHAPIN

"I have hesitated to respond to your request for information with regard to myself, because I have done nothing the last ten years which can be of any interest to anybody. I have not married and have held no political office of any account. I have continued to practice as a trust lawyer notwithstanding the competition of the trust companies, and there seems to be a fair prospect of my outliving all my clients, and when that happens, I will retire."

HERBERT AUGUSTUS CHASE

"As for my personal record I was reappointed medical director of the New England Order of Protection in 1929, but have not been in active practice as a physician for the past ten years. Am now first vice-president of the Wildey Savings Bank as well as clerk of the Board of Trustees and the Board of Investment. After the dissolution of the Colonial Club of Cambridge I joined the Faculty Club of Harvard, and am still a member of the Boston City Club but not of the Harvard Club. My son Harold died January 6, 1929 and I have one more grandchild, Edwin Rogers Sparrow, Jr., born May 24, 1922."

EPHRAIM EMERTON

"In the 1921 report my publication in 1920 should read 'The Defensor Pacis of Massiglio of Padua.' Have since published: 1921, 'Learning and Living,' academic essays; 1925, 'Humanism and Tyranny,' studies in the Italian trecento.

My daughter, Clara Browning, died July 14, 1930."

WILLIAM ELLERY CHANNING EUSTIS

(I am giving here the substance of a letter received from one of Eustis's sons. A. M. B.)

"My father has asked me to reply to your two letters of April 17 and May 5.

RECORDS OF THE CLASS

I know that he would like to help in preparing notes for the coming report, but unfortunately he has not been very well for the last two months and he has asked me to send what notes I can to help you. During the past ten years he has lived, until very recently, his previous normal life, in which he gave regular attention to his business at his office in Boston while living at his home in Readville near the Blue Hills. He regularly took a substantial outing each winter in Florida where he made headquarters at the Canaveral Club, where he enjoyed shooting, fishing and life on the water, also in it. In summer he has continued to go to his summer home at Scraggy Neck, Cataumet, where yachting has been his main interest. He has continued to follow yacht racing with keen interest and even last summer, at the age of eighty-one, was still sailing his own twenty-one footer.

As the years go by, Father more and more often refers to his college days and speaks of his old college friends, and last evening when he asked me to write to you he got out his old baseball pictures and was hunting for the picture of Mr. Joseph G. Thorpe, who has just died. His daughter, Mary Channing, died in 1919. He now has eleven grandchildren, four of them born in the last ten years."

WILLIAM CLIFFORD FRENCH

"You may add to my record that my first wife died in September 1888, and that I married again in September 1891. I very much regret that I shall be unable to be with you and fellow classmates on our sixtieth anniversary."

THEODORE CLARENCE GLEASON

"My pastorate at North Kingston was terminated in 1926, due to a severe illness, but I have since regained my health, and am sharing the house of my son Clarence and the family fellowship. I have a lovely home and am busily and happily occupied in physical culture, floriculture, literary work and various lines of church work and occasional preaching. In 1930 I was elected pastor-emeritus of the First Baptist Church in East Greenwich. My wife died in 1922 and my son Philip was killed in an automobile accident in 1928."

HARVARD COLLEGE—CLASS 1871

WILLIAM BARKER HILLS

"I have not much to add to my record as it appeared in the Class Report issued in 1921. In August 1927 I resigned my position as chemist at the home office of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company of Boston, and came to Montclair, New Jersey, in order to be near my daughter, at the same time retiring from all professional activities. My general health remains good, my digestion is unimpaired, sleep six hours out of the twenty-four, and am leading a happy and contented existence with my family and my books."

SAMUEL PARKER HINCKLEY

"I am in pretty vigorous health for my age, for which I am duly grateful; and also for the recovery of my son Julian from a long period of invalidism from arthritis, who has since distinguished himself as a writer, sculptor, etcher and architect. I shall try to attend the Commencement festivities, but I must admit that there is a certain sadness in these reunions."

"For some we loved, the loveliest and the best
That from his vintage rolling Time has prest,
Have drunk their cup a round or two before,
And one by one crept silently to rest."

GEORGE IRVING JONES

"I hope you have a big attendance and a very jolly time. I have delayed replying somewhat, in the hope of coming down and being one of the '71 men there, but circumstances have dashed that hope.

I wish I might drink with each member of the class to his health and long life, in good old-fashioned drinks. I still think that Prohibition theory and practices are the most dangerous tendencies in American life. I have always felt that freedom was the symbol of Americans, but in old times no man was allowed to kiss his wife on the street. Prohibition seems to be following that old method of individual control. It seems to me that Prohibition has been a substantial failure; I am glad to say this.

RECORDS OF THE CLASS

On the day of the banquet, I'll drink to you and all members of the class — and it won't be ice water, either! — for your enjoyment of the day and all other remaining days of life.

Here's hail to the Class of '71 as long as it lives!"

CHARLES WARREN KIMBALL

"I have yours of the fifth instant in which you ask me to send you a few words to be inserted in the monograph to be prepared for our Sixtieth Anniversary.

You say it is your 'Swan Song.' I am not prepared to assent to this. You must remember that it is quite as much the fashion nowadays to live to be ninety and upwards as it was a few generations ago to live to the age of eighty. I am very hopeful that you will be sending out a similar message ten years hence, and I am also hopeful that I shall be in the land of the living to receive your notice.

As to my own experiences in the last decade, I have nothing to offer that would be of general interest to our classmates; but I am glad to report that I believe the last ten years have been the pleasantest of my life. Tell the boys, who are able to get together with you at the coming meeting, that it will be out of the question for me to attend — although not, by any means, because of physical or mental infirmities, but those of us who are so extremely fortunate as to have grandchildren, and especially granddaughters, who are likely to be graduated or married in the coming month of June, find it simply out of the question to be away from home at that time."

HARVARD COLLEGE — CLASS 1871

WILLIAM LAWRENCE

“Since the report of 1921 was issued I have received the honorary degree of LL.D. from Boston University in 1923, Trinity College in 1925, and Williams College in 1931. I have published the following books: ‘Fifty Years,’ in 1923; ‘Life of Henry Cabot Lodge,’ in 1925; ‘Memories of a Happy Life,’ in 1926; ‘Life of Phillips Brooks,’ in 1930; and various papers on the current topics of the day. I have been president of the Church Pension Fund since its formation in 1917. This fund has now a capital of $128,000,000, and pays out in pensions $1,000,000 annually to some fifteen hundred clergymen, widows and children.

In May of this year I resigned my position as a Fellow of the Corporation of Harvard University, which office I have held since 1913; having previously served as overseer for eighteen years and six years as preacher, this makes a total of forty-two years of service to my Alma Mater. I was chairman of a committee which raised $10,000,000 for the Chemistry, Fine Arts, and Graduate Business School Departments, and had the good fortune to help in leading George F. Baker in his gift of $5,000,000 to found the Graduate School of Business Administration. Was also chairman of a committee to raise funds for the Episcopal Theological School of Cambridge, the construction and endowment of the Harvard Law School and other similar purposes.

I resigned my work and official position as Bishop of Massachusetts in June 1927, after a service of thirty-four years. In September 1927 my wife died but I am still blest with a large family of children and grandchildren. You may recall my discussion with Tudor at our fiftieth as to progeny, in which he finally agreed that I excelled in number though of course not in quality. Whatever the quality may be the number still increases. I make it that I have eight children, of whom seven are living; and twenty-seven grandchildren, of whom twenty-three are living; no great grandchildren.”

(I am able to note in this connection that the Bishop is still ahead in the race, for I find that Tudor has to his credit only five children, of whom four are living; and twenty grandchildren, of whom nineteen are living; but Tudor leads in the third generation with two greatgrandchildren. A. M. B.)

RECORDS OF THE CLASS

GEORGE PRESCOTT MONTAGUE

(I have had no reply from Montague but am satisfied that he still "hangs out" at the New York Harvard Club. A.M.B.)

HARRY PIERCE NICHOLS

"In 1922 I resigned as the active rector of Holy Trinity Church, deeming that a man of over seventy should not be in charge of a big city parish, but have continued to serve on committees and commissions, especially those having to do with young men, and I give frequent help to busy clergymen.

Continue my mountaineering activities and interests, especially in connection with the hikes of the Appalachian Mountain Club in the White Mountains. Last summer I passed in the Canadian Rockies, tramping and climbing. I was joined by my two children and six grandchildren, who made an ascent of a 10,600-foot mountain.

I celebrated my eightieth birthday September 3, 1930, in the home of my daughter in Minneapolis, all my children and grandchildren being present, with many callers. My daughter presented me with a calendar of three volumes, containing some five hundred greetings from old friends, with illustrations and poems; a daily delight to read and reply to. I may avail myself of the privilege of a guest for June 16-17."

EDWARD OSGOOD OTIS

"During the past ten years I have been active in the work of the prevention of tuberculosis. In 1923 I made a rather dramatic hasty trip to England to obtain some new vaccine for a special case, which it was hoped might prove a cure for this disease, but like so many others it proved ineffective. In June 1924 I received the honorary degree of Doctor of Science from Tufts College, and on the following day I received the same honorary degree from the University of New Hampshire. In 1926 I resigned my professorship of medicine at Tufts College Medical School after a service of twenty-five years.

HARVARD COLLEGE—CLASS 1871

During the latter part of the year 1926 and the first half of the following year, 1927, I made a cruise around the world which was most delightful until I was unfortunate enough to be laid up in a hospital at Constantinople with quite a severe illness, which continued for some time after my return.

Later I resumed my practice in Boston, although I had taken up my permanent residence in Exeter, N. H. In 1929 I retired from practice, but I still keep up my interest and association with various tuberculosis associations. I am a member of the Executive Committee of the Boston Tuberculosis Association, one of the directors of the New Hampshire Tuberculosis Association, the honorary President of the Massachusetts Tuberculosis League, and an honorary director of the National Tuberculosis Association of which I was one of the founders. I am one of the governors of the American College of Physicians, and a member of other medical and scientific associations.

In 1930 I took for the second time what is called the 'Pray Prize' of the trustees of the New Hampshire Medical Society, which is awarded for the best essay on some aspect of medicine. My subject was 'The Prevention of Disease.'

I am a vestryman of Christ's Episcopal Church in Exeter and am still a Major in the Reserve Medical Corps of the United States Army, and a member of the American Legion. As far as I know I was the only member of my class who had service in the Great War, although I did not get overseas.

Besides writing some popular health notes for our local paper, I am doing no continuous work. My five children are occupied in various ways, two having graduated from Harvard. My youngest child took his A.M. degree at Harvard in 1930, when he was twenty-two years of age, and now has charge of the Classical Department of Earlham College, Richmond, Ind. I have three grandchildren. As I look over the sixty years since our graduation, I can only exclaim as probably all of us do, ‘How short it seems.’”

RECORDS OF THE CLASS

CHARLES LANE PALMER

(The old story about the “grossly exaggerated reports” in re Mark Twain came very near being repeated in Palmer’s case. Having heard nothing from him for the past ten years, I made inquiry about him through a leading bank in Los Gatos and learned that he had lived in Los Gatos for ten or fifteen years, and although not occupying any official position he had been a fairly well-known and respected citizen, but that he had died some three years ago. The substance of this report was incorporated in Palmer’s record ready to print, but wishing to be able to give you the exact date of his death I applied to the City Clerk of Los Gatos, and to my great pleasure received the following reply. A. M. B.)

“Mr. Palmer is still living in Los Gatos. He is feeble and almost blind, but the same fine, courteous gentleman that he has always been. I think I have never known a more kindly, self-forgetful man than Mr. Palmer. He and his wife have been friends of my mother for several years.”

WILLIAM CABELL RIVES

“Although not entirely uneventful, my experiences during the last ten years do not offer anything of sufficient interest to be recorded. You might put me down as secretary instead of vice-president of the Newport Sanitary Protection Association. I am hoping to be present at the lunch at the Harvard Club on Tuesday, June 16.”

HARVARD COLLEGE — CLASS 1871

WALLACE EUGENE RHODES

No report.

CHARLES FREDERICK SEYBOLD

“Gladly would I comply with your request to furnish material for a short résumé of happenings in my life during the past ten years, but what could I glean from my tranquil pursuits of that period to interest my classmates? Despite a dearth of suitable material, you may add to the record, if you wish, two happenings — the one bringing sorrow, the other, serenity. 1. October 24, 1925. The death of my wife Carlene Virginia. 2. May 22, 1927. My retirement from the Life Insurance Company’s service.

With this latter event came the boon of a wider range in the disposal of my remaining allotted span, the boon to renew among other things my studies of younger days — to browse among books, to cultivate a little music, to indulge in a hobby or two, to keep in closer touch with current movements and issues. And, withal, in the rush of speeding hours, whirling years, a striving not to lose faith in the worth of that good, old-fashioned, much derided saying, ‘All is for the best in the best of possible worlds.’”

HARVEY NEWTON SHEPARD

“The only matter which I think of to send to you is the work incident to my membership on the Forestry Committee appointed by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, which caused me to go both to the Pacific Coast and to the Gulf States, and our report became the basis of Congressional legislation.”

HENRY CLARK TOWNSEND

“There is nothing particular that I can add to what appears in the last printed report. I am still plodding along although I find that, whether or no, I am letting up a little in my business activities. The statement from me appearing in your last printed report will have to be amended to the effect that ‘for a man of my years’ my health is still pretty good. I am sorry to have to say that after more than fifty years of wedded life, I had the misfortune to lose my wife last September. Highest regards to you and all the members of the class ”

RECORDS OF THE CLASS

JAMES MORRIS TROUTT

“In November 1922, I was reelected to the Superior Court for a six-year term, and in 1928 was again a candidate for reelection, but was defeated by a small majority. Heretofore the judges who were candidates for reelection had always run on one and the same ticket (non-partisan), and an equal number of candidates also ran in opposition, but the sentiment of the people was always for the present incumbents and that ticket always won. This time, under a new law, any aspiring candidate could select a particular judge as his opponent, and a police court judge picked me out, urging his election on the ground that I was too old and had been in office long enough — thirty-eight years. Well, it is true, I was eighty-one years, but I was still in full possession of all my faculties and enjoyed and was able to perform all my duties, but he had been planning his campaign for a long time, was a hale fellow, belonging to many fraternal orders and organizations, had his own court henchmen to work for him, and it is said that some seventy-five thousand dollars was spent in the campaign.

I have enjoyed my usual good health up to within the past few weeks when I have been confined to the house with asthmatic trouble. My wife and I had been in hopes that we might take a trip east this year, but that is now out of the question, so I must content myself by sending my best wishes and heartfelt regards to all the good fellows of the great Class of ’71.”

WILLIAM PECK WENTWORTH

No report.

HARVARD COLLEGE—CLASS 1871

BYRON CRANE WILLIAMS

"I have scarcely anything to add to what you have already published. I have simply been practicing law at my old address in Newark, New York, and I am now, from my years, taking it somewhat easy, but still at work every day and I am happy to say that I am enjoying that work and am in good health and strength. Of course, there have been labor and sorrow, but not more than my share. I hope that at the end of another ten years you will be publishing another monograph as Secretary of 1871.

Kindest regards to you and yours and all my classmates."

HONORARY MEMBERS

CHARLES ROCKWELL LANMAN

"In 1926 I retired from oral teaching at Harvard, but am still in active service editing, with the coöperation of various scholars, volumes one to forty of The Harvard Oriental Series. This includes the oldest works of the literature of India: the Veda of Praise or Rig-veda (oldest work of the Indo-European Family of the human race); the Veda of the Sacrifice or Yajur-veda; the Veda of Magic Charms or Atharva-veda; the Concordance to the Vedic literature; and Buddhist Acta Sanctorum, or great repertory of the lives of the Buddhist Saints. Also (to make possible a just estimate of the character and teachings of Buddha, the greatest personality that India has ever produced): The Way of Purity, by Buddha-ghosa (400 A.D.), or Visuddhi-magga, edited in the original Pali, by Henry Clarke Warren, volumes 39 and 40. Also Warren's Buddhism in Translations, issued in eight editions. About half of it was included (1910) by President Eliot in The Harvard Classics. Of this work of fifty volumes, about 344,000 sets have been sold to date, 1931. Perhaps the oldest work of the Buddhist canon is the Discourse-collectany or Sutta-nipāta, a collection of Buddha's teachings. An edition of the original Pali text, with an English version facing it, is now all in type, from the hand of the Rt. Hon. Robert Lord Chalmers, Master of Peterhouse, Cambridge, sometime Governor of Ceylon, and Secretary of H. B. Majesty's Treasury.

In addition to the societies mentioned in the 1921 report I am the correspondent of the Academy of Inscriptions and Belles-lettres (1668) of the Institute of France, a member of the Ecole Francaise d'Extreme Orient, the Oriental Institute in Prague and of the British Academy, London.

Five of my six children are living and I am blest with seven grandchildren. I still keep up my rowing on the Charles River, largely because one can make a mild exercise of it."

HARVARD COLLEGE—CLASS 1871

(I wonder how many of us noticed in the 1921 report that this honorary member's record showed him to have been the father and also the grandfather of twins. A. M. B.)

EDWARD LAURENS MARK

"I was made Hersey Professor of Anatomy, Harvard University, in 1921, and am still director of the Harvard Zoölogical Laboratory and the Bermuda Biological Station for Research, which position I have held since 1903. In addition to societies mentioned in last report am a member of the American Philosophical Society and a foreign member of the Royal Belgian Society of Zoölogy, the Royal Bohemian Society of Sciences, and the Cuban Society of Natural History. My wife died in December 1923."

NECROLOGY

1921	BARTLETT STEARNs	1925	BOOTH BURNET
1922	DANIELS		GERRISH
1923	CONNOR ELA, R. FOX MAYHEW PEARCE REED TUDOR		BIGELOW GARLAND LAMB STEDMAN, H. R. SUTRO HAGAR WHITNEY, E. F.
1924	BOYD ELA, W. KLAPP LAWRENCE, J. S. LODGE LOVERING MERRIAM NESMITH STOWELL SWIFT	1926 1927 1928 1929 1930 1931	JENKS WILDS WING BASS BULLOCK DEMING JAMES McCobb PILLSBURY STORY CANAVAN

ADDRESSES

- BARNES, ALBERT M.
719 Massachusetts Avenue, Cambridge, Massachusetts
- BUSH, SAMUEL DACRE
Marlboro, New Hampshire
- BYERLY, PROF. WILLIAM E.
Oakley Club, Watertown, Massachusetts
- CHADWICK, FRANCIS B.
180 Boulevard St. Germain, Paris, France
- CHAPIN, HORACE D.
50 State Street, Boston, Massachusetts
- CHASE, DR. HERBERT A.
950 Massachusetts Avenue, Cambridge, Massachusetts
- EMERTON, PROF. EPHRAIM
19 Chauncy Street, Cambridge, Massachusetts
- EUSTIS, WILLIAM E. C.
131 State Street, Boston, Massachusetts
- FRENCH, W. CLIFFORD
P. O. Box 102, South Pasadena, California
- GLEASON, REV. THEODORE C.
East Greenwich, Rhode Island
- HILLS, DR. WILLIAM B.
116 Buckingham Road, Upper Montclair, New Jersey
- HINCKEY, SAMUEL PARKER
1 West 54th Street, New York City
- JONES, GEORGE I.
5422 Kenmore Avenue, Chicago, Illinois
- KIMBALL, CHARLES W.
Penn Yan, New York
- LAWRENCE, RT. REV. WILLIAM
122 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston, Massachusetts

RECORDS OF THE CLASS

MONTAGUE, GEORGE P.

Harvard Club, New York City

NICHOLS, REV. HARRY P.

3 West 8th Street, New York City

OTIS, DR. EDWARD O.

81 Front Street, Exeter, New Hampshire

PALMER, CHARLES L.

Los Gatos, California

RHODES, WALLACE E.

New Club, Preston Street, Brighton, Sussex, England

RIVES, DR. WILLIAM C.

1702 Rhode Island Avenue, Washington, D. C.

SEYBOLD, PROF. CHARLES F.

4553 Erie Avenue, Madisonville, Cincinnati, Ohio

SHEPARD, HARVEY N.

53 State Street, Boston, Massachusetts

TOWNSEND, HENRY C.

149 Broadway, New York City

TROUTT, HON. JAMES M.

666 Post Street, San Francisco, California

WENTWORTH, WILLIAM P.

(Lost)

WILLIAMS, BYRON C.

Newark, Wayne County, New York

HONORARY MEMBERS

LANMAN, PROF. CHARLES R. (Yale 1871)

9 Farrar Street, Cambridge, Massachusetts

MARK, PROF. EDWARD L. (Univ. Mich. 1871)

109 Irving Street, Cambridge, Massachusetts

